Membership Policies (updated October, 2009)

Membership Qualification: Any business person may be considered for membership. They need not be the owner of that business. Employees, people working on commission, home-based businesses, managers, and owners are eligible for membership.

Exclusivity: There may not be any duplication of business categories represented within the club. Each member is guaranteed the exclusivity in his or her field. Example: one lawyer, one accountant, one travel agent, etc. In the event of a possible duplication of business categories, the President is to consult with the current member. If the current member is not sure, arrange a meeting between the two. If the current member finds no conflict, the new member may join. Members will have a week to approve every new application for membership.

Membership & Membership Cap: ProClub reserves the right to revoke membership at any time member's actions are deemed detrimental to the club's ability to exchange and generate quality leads. The maximum membership for this Club is thirty. The membership can vote to increase this number at any time, according to voting procedures.

Transfer of Membership: Membership is non-transferable. When a member leaves the Club, someone from the same company may not automatically take over the membership of the member that is leaving, without first completing the application process and being approved by the PRO Club.

Application for Membership: Potential new members can be invited to attend a meeting as a visitor at any time as long as there is no conflict with the club's exclusivity clause. If a visitor would like to join Pro Club, they should submit an application and guarantee that they can fulfill their membership responsibilities. They are then asked to skip the next meeting when the club will go over the application. Any concerns by club members should be aired at that time. The club will then vote via secret ballot on approving that member's application.

Member Responsibilities:

- Attend weekly meetings
- Give leads and promote members' businesses
- Present a 10 minute promotion of their business on a rotating basis
- Present a 30 second promotional at each meeting
- Promote ONLY their business at the meetings
- Pay fees on time, with a check
- Use good business ethics at all times

Forfeiture of Membership:

- Absent more than nine (9) times in a calendar year, emergencies and special/social meetings not counted
- Delinquent membership dues.
- Representing a business other than as applied.
- Promoting a business during the meeting that competes with a current member's business.
- Failing to provide at least three leads per quarter, or one guest per month.
- Failure to rotate through the PRO Club leadership chairs when turn comes up
- Board action taken when complaints of poor business ethics arise, and members cannot give quality leads.

Agents: Agents may be sent by a member to represent them at a meeting with no violation of the attendance policy. The agent is a representative of the member who is unable to attend and should be well versed in the member's business and the PRO Club process.
